JEROME'S NEWSLETTER

November-December 2021

Dear Jeromans,

The holiday season is upon us, and sadly, many of us have dealt with the tragic loss of life in recent days amongst our friends in Jerome. My heartfelt condolences to those of you who knew them well. May they all rest in peace.

We all are so fortunate to live in this small, caring community; let's continue to help and respect each other as best we can as we deal with life's challenges and hardships.

For those of you who have chosen to be vaccinated and are eligible for a booster shot, I will try to set up a date for receiving them when they become available. To those of you who have chosen not to be vaccinated—it's obviously your choice—but as a public health professional, I believe it is beneficial for everyone who is able to be vaccinated to get it.

The Town is maintaining its high visitor numbers, which benefits local businesses and provides funds to help with infrastructure issues. I am hopeful that when the Arizona Legislature reconvenes, we will be eligible for financial support as well.

The Council, our consultants, and interested citizens have been in discussions about our water rate structure and sewer treatment plant needs. I encourage you to join us.

Please have a joyous and safe holiday season.

Best wishes and warm regards,

Mayor Jack

Auction Success and Volunteers Needed!

Our 2021 fall brunch and auction was a magical event and wonderful success. Despite the challenges presented by the pandemic, our community set a new standard of support for the Jerome Humane Society. Our can-do volunteers donated time and significant energy to our big event. Local businesses and artists generously contributed beautiful and exciting items to our auction, and brunch patrons bid sky-high to support our cause. Thanks to auctioneer extraordinaire, Carrie Anderson, and to Tommy Rocks and his crew for setting our toes a-tapping. Special thanks as always to Marge Graziano, Josh Ludwig, and Sarah Gianelli for opening their homes to us for days on end for event operations—before, during, and after the brunch. Also thank you to Margaret Heinrichsen, one of our greatest benefactors, for her generous donation of the big top tent, tables, and chairs. We're grateful for your outpouring of love and support.

The funds we've raised will help us continue important efforts like our TNR (trap/neuter/release) feral cat program, which we're relaunching to address another burgeoning colony in the Holly Street area. We've already trapped four beautiful orange kits, currently being fostered at the clinic. (Thank you to Mimi Currier for devoting her time, patience, and affection to the babies!) If you're interested in adopting these beauties, call us! We adopt out young kittens like these in pairs, or to owners who have young companion kittens at home, in keeping with industry best practice for kitten development and socialization. As the Kitten Lady (our favorite expert on kitten behavior) says, "one kitten is really only half a kitten."

Want to volunteer? Does all the above sound interesting and fun to you?

If you're vaccinated and interested in being part of our

Jerome Humane Society volunteer team, please contact us at jeromehumane@gmail.com or message us on Facebook. We're looking for energetic, happy team players with a background in animal rescue, events, or those willing to plunge in and learn. Join the team and help us help our four-legged friends!

Blessings from Haven,

Happy Fall, everyone. Enjoy the beautiful colors that will pass all too soon. I love the red, yellow, orange, green mixture. I appreciate comfortable weather that creates inspiring surroundings, which for me is not too hot or too cold, clear skies with a few clouds, fresh air, not too humid. Landscapes with pretty foliage and colorful flowers. Butterflies and birds filling the air. Wild animals freely enjoying the awe and wonder of nature's full bounty.

Though I like having all that, I would soon miss the opportunity for change. I anticipate with delight watching a brief snow and seeing the sprouts of green that break through at the end of winter. I wait to see bulbs flower for even a short time. I enjoy the fruits of spring and summer and vegetables of fall and winter. I love to see the rain awaken the forest in newborn green. I delight in the footprints of animals traveling through my snowy yard.

My point is every season has more beauty than we often focus on. The less than perfect stuff passes shortly, when we choose not to dwell on it. Storms come and go; nature dies but is reborn. Sharing the joy of life and its changes blesses us all. Caring for others and praying for one another gives us hope. Haven and I are truly thankful and richly blessed to be part of this Jerome community. Thank you for all you do for others.

May your season be bursting with love and joy, with hope and peace,

Jerome Historical Society

On June 23, 1910, a Thursday, just after 10am a huge fire broke out that destroyed the buildings of the Jerome Dairy Company, which was owned at that time by Mr. Fred Mickle. The dairy would reopen under new ownership just a couple of years later. The interesting fact is that the Jerome Dairy Company, both prior to the fire and then afterwards under the new owners, was a Cottonwood-based business—not Jerome as the name implied. Around this period, due to the population of Jerome and the surrounding areas of Cottonwood, Clemenceau, and Clarkdale, the demand for fresh dairy products resulted in as many as six dairies in the Upper Verde Valley. Most of these were owned and operated by families of Italian descent.

You can join the Jerome Historical Society or renew your membership by visiting our website at www.jeromehistoricalsociety.com or stop by the Mine Museum at 200 Main Street (open 9am–5pm, 7 days a week). Your membership gets you:

- Free admission to the JHS Museums
- 15% off Gift Shop and On-Line Purchases

Farewell to Musings from the Old Book Room

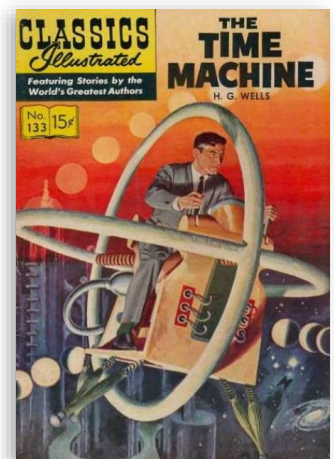

Time to go. I'm relinquishing my supervision of the Old Book Room. It's been a privilege to volunteer at the Jerome Library's unique annex of dated yet timeless treasures for the past several years. Looking back, I would've done things differently, of course. Don't we all do that now and then ... wish for a way to go back in time and make some changes? Pondering this as I strolled the OBR, I was naturally drawn to H. G. Wells's The Time Machine, first published in 1895. To say it popularized the concept of time travel in so many forms is a titanic understatement: in countless sci-fi/fantasy stories and novels, films, plays, radio dramas, television series, comic books, music, and so on. Not to mention the ever-evolving scientific study of actually achieving it. Think Einstein's theory of relativity and Hawking's book, A Brief History of Time.

My first experience with time travel was as a kid reading early '60s Superman comics. As I recall, he'd somehow manage to fly through a succession of golden hoops (conveniently numbered) and try to change history, but ironically, always failed. Heavy stuff. So many other things quickly come to mind: J. R. R. Tolkien having Elf time advance at a different speed than mortal speed, movies like METROPOLIS, THE TERMINATOR, SOMEWHERE IN TIME, BACK TO THE FUTURE, 12 MONKEYS, INTERSTELLAR, ARRIVAL, etc. And of course, The Doctor. "Doctor Who?" you ask. "Absolutely," I reply.

My thanks to Kathleen Jarvis and Karen Wood, the founders of the Old Book Room for this delightful experience and to Point of View for letting me ramble on. Please visit the OBR in the future and encourage others to do so. I leave you with a quote from Ernest Hemingway: "There is no friend as loyal as a book."

Okay, my time's up—but only if you think of time as linear...

Jerome Artistas de los Muertos

Day of the Dead or Dia de los Muertos is a traditional Mexican holiday celebrated November 2. On this day, it is believed that the souls of the dead return to visit their living family members.

Many people celebrate this day by visiting the graves of deceased loved ones and setting up altars. The Jerome Library is honoring several of our own loved ones with an exhibit showing artwork and photos of Jerome Artists who have passed on.

This will be an ongoing exhibit—more Artistas de los Muertos will be added to the exhibit as time and materials allow.
